Citizens Endorse John B. Byrne

The Arlington Citizens' Committee held an enthusiastic meeting of over 100 members and friends at their Headquarters, 1195 Massachusetts avenue, last Tuesday evening. The committee endorsed John B. Byrne for the three year term on the Park Commission. The committee's three candidates for the School Committee spoke briefly. Harrie Dadmun discussed the necessity of electing business men to the School Committee, and Mrs. Turner told of some of the work of the Committee to keep a high standard of education in the Arlington schools. Clement J. Beaudet spoke in praise of the splendid work of Superintendent Dempsey for the past three years. Charles M. MacMillin and Edward L. Shinn, candidates for the Planning Board, talked of the work of the Board with special reference to the fine work done in obtaining State aid for the highway from Cambridge to Concord on which work has already started. Alfred W. Lombard, for more than sixteen years a member of the Board of Health and candidate for re-election, spoke briefly in praise of other candidates on the Citizens' Committee slate. George Shirley, candidate for election to the Park Commission, was introduced to the gathering.

Ernest Davis told of the recent loan of $600,000 obtained by the Town in anticipation of taxes at the remarkably low rate of 2 1/2 per cent. There were six bidders for this loan, he said, whereas the neighboring town of Watertown, at the same time, was unable to obtain any bids. He emphasized the importance of keeping Arlington's credit unimpaired, thereby saving considerable money in interest charges.

The guest speaker of the evening, Honorable Philip Bowker, selectman of Brookline and representative to General Court, commented on the fine government enjoyed by both Arlington and Brookline, and on the great advantages accruing to both towns through free of political entanglements with the City of Boston.

The annual reunion of St. Agnes parish will be held in Parochial School Hall on the evening of February 9th. There will be whist, bridge, forty-five, and dancing.

Clifford W. Cook, head of the Welfare Department has received further supplies from the Federal government this week and has distributed them to the people who are receiving aid. The first of these supplies came in November. Since then there have been received and distributed in all 785 pounds of butter, 900 dozen eggs, 360 bushels of apples, 410 pounds of beans, four tons of pork and 450 tons of coal.

There are now 352 names on the welfare list. This includes those in all the charities which come under town jurisdiction — Soldiers' Relief, State Military Aid, Welfare Aid, Old Age Assistance and Mothers' Aid.

Work on the C. W. A. projects has been given to everyone who is able to do this kind of work and whose names were on the welfare lists on the first of December.

Miss Margaret McGill Reviews Republican Party

That Miss Margaret McGill is a firm believer in the Republican party and its future was evinced in the splendid address she gave at the meeting following the luncheon by the Arlington Women's Republican Club in Wyman's Tavern on Wednesday. Miss McGill, because of her wide knowledge of her subject acquired as an active worker in the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, was able not only to review the past history of the Republican party which covers a period of seventy-eight years but to speak intelligently as to its future.

This Miss McGill feels is assured because of the principles that have dominated the party throughout its history of a splendid blending of conservatism and liberalism and because there have always been attracted to the party thinking people, drawn there because of a platform clearly defined. The speaker felt that the two great parties had both been stimulated by other parties that have sprung into being for brief times. They had been a challenge which had been accepted by the Republican party.

Ours is a watchful waiting game said the speaker to see what comes out of the sifting process of managed currency and the challenged rights of the individuals. That the Republican party has a future full of promise only delayed was the belief of Miss McGill. That every member of the Republican party in both town and city has a part in bringing about this was the closing message.

Mrs. Nelson B. Crosby and Miss Alice W. Homer were chosen to serve on the nominating committee at this time. The president of the club, Miss Esther Bailey, presided over the meeting.

First Pay Day After C. W. A. Cut

Tomorrow will be the first pay day since the hours, and consequently the pay, of those working on C. W. A. projects were cut. It was last Friday that the Selectmen received a telegram from the Federal authorities saying that the fact that the average weekly wage was in excess of the weekly payroll made it necessary to reduce the hours of work. They were instructed, beginning that day to decrease the number of hours from thirty to twenty-four, thereby decreasing the pay from $15 to $12.

The Selectmen feel confident that more money will be appropriated and are preparing projects to be submitted for the approval of the C. W. A. administrator so that no time will be lost. It is expected that the work will continue until the first of May.

Last week Thursday the Board of Selectmen—Chairman Arthur P. Wyman, Leonard Collins and George H. Lowe, Jr.—James Keane, the town engineer; Clifford W. Cook, head of the Welfare Department, and Neil Peters, head of the unemployment office, attended a meeting of the C. W. A. administrators in Gardner auditorium in the State House.

Men are at work now on the three projects that were most recently approved — painting and repairing the Old Town Hall, painting the new Parmenter School and altering the police station.

Compares Three Presidents In Current Events Talk

Miss Eunice Avery in the last of her series of talks on current events, given Wednesday evening in the vestry of the First Parish church, made interesting comparisons of the three presidents—Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

Coolidge and Roosevelt, she said, were more effective in dealing with the people. The people now are learning more about government than ever before, because of Roosevelt's short, personally presented reports. Hoover had no publicity sense. He was a great organizer and fifteen years ago advocated the plan which is now being used. The country would have been better off now if it had tried the plan then.

Miss Avery gave the conclusions she had drawn from her studies of the west, speaking particularly of Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska. Many of the farmers feel that something is being done and are waiting for results. She spoke of the "suitcase farmer" as a serious problem and added that this class would probably be done away with. The effort, she said, is to make the farmer produce only what he can sell at a reasonable price.

Included among the large number of Miss Avery's hearers, were many men. The series was sponsored by the Social Alliance of the First Parish church.

Twenty-four census enumerators and one assistant supervisor have been chosen from Arlington according to Mrs. Roscoe Perry, local Federal Administrator. The work of taking the unemployed census has been held up by the government.

John Bishop Talks On Rotary Education

As one of the members of the Rotary Education Committee, John A. Bishop, treasurer of the Menotomy Trust Co. was called upon by Lawrence Bliss, chairman, to explain to the new members what Rotary means, or should mean to Rotarians. The address was delivered at the regular Wednesday meeting of the club at the Middlesex Sportsman's Association clubhouse.

Mr. Bishop stated that Rotary endeavors to inspire better understanding among men. The name came about from the fact that the first meetings called by Paul Harris in Chicago in 1905 were held at the offices of the small group in rotation. There are four classes of membership and the speaker explained the proper procedure to increase the membership—there must be no direct solicitation. Membership is not so much the individual as a representation of a business—the classification. The member's business should always be so conducted as to cast no reflection upon Rotary.

Mr. Bishop closed by explaining the six objects of Rotary and reading a poem by Edgar Guest.

Votes to Lay Out Six Streets

At its meeting Tuesday evening the Joint Board voted to recommend the laying out of six streets—Bailley road, Burch street, Gloucester street, Phillips street, Sunset road, and Scituate street.

Hearings were also held on Glen avenue, Sunset road extension, and Burton street, but the owners of property on these streets who attended the hearing were not in favor of having the streets built because of the present economic conditions which would make it hard for them to pay for the improvement.

To Be Held at 8:30, March 21st, to Appropriate Money for Tuberculosis Hospital.

Civic Committee to Endorse Candidates

During the past week the Civic Committee was organized for the purpose of functioning in town elections. The officers are: John L. Murphy, president; George H. Lowe, Jr., vice-president; Paul Griffin, secretary and John Connor, treasurer.

The candidates endorsed by this organization will oppose those endorsed by the Citizens' Committee at the coming elections in March.

On Sunday the Civic Committee will hold a big mass meeting at Junior High East on Foster street. At this meeting candidates who aspire to hold office will be given an opportunity to present themselves and those joining the committee will have an opportunity to vote for the men whom they think best qualified for the different offices. All citizens interested in the welfare of the Civic Committee are welcome.

The Board of Selectmen on Monday evening opened the warrant for a special Town Meeting to be held at half past eight on March 21st. The warrant will close on February 5th at 8:30. To be placed on this warrant an article must have the signatures of one hundred legal voters.

The special meeting is called to ensure the immediate appropriation of $22,770.54 for care, maintenance, treatment of patients, and repairs of the Middlesex County Tuberculosis Hospital at Waltham. If this sum is not paid before the first of April interest will be added to it. It was feared that if an article calling for this appropriation were placed in the warrant for the regular Town Meeting adjournments might postpone action upon it until after the first of April.

This is less than was paid for the hospital last year when the assessment was $24,427.77. Of the sum assessed, $10,000 will go for payment of debt.

Mr. Parmenter to Show Pictures of C. C. C. Work

Life in the C. C. C. camps in Massachusetts forests has been filmed by the State Department of Conservation and the film is made available free of charge for entertainment and education throughout the state. It shows the boys in action, by the kitchen as well as in the field of real forestry work, even at 40 degrees below zero. It pictures their doings, from the Myles Standish Reservation on Cape Cod to the high hills of the Berkshires, and at the same time shows the vast projects on which they are engaged, such as the construction of large dams, the building of wide roads with crushed stone which they blast out and break up with their hammers, the digging of water holes that will become fish ponds and swimming holes, and the scientific weeding of the forests to give lumber a chance to grow straight.

These pictures had their initial showing before members of the Legislature and heads of State departments and will be used by Robert B. Parmenter, of Bartlett avenue, Extension Forester in the Department of Conservation, in connection with his lectures on the life and accomplishments of the C. C. C. in Massachusetts. This service is offered free of charge to any group of interested people, such as Chambers of Commerce, Rotary Clubs, Teachers' Associations, within the ability of Mr. Parmenter to fill the engagements, as the policy of the Federal Government, as well as of the State, is to acquaint the public with this unique experiment in rehabilitation of youth and public forest development. Mr. Parmenter may be addressed on this subject at the State Department of Conservation, 20 Somerset street, Boston.

TOWN HALL AUDIENCE ENJOYS HOLY CROSS GLEE CLUB

The concert given last Friday evening in Robbins Memorial Town Hall by the Holy Cross Glee Club under the auspices of the Arlington Teachers' Association, was much enjoyed by a large audience, who found the group a particularly delightful one.

The Glee Club opened the program with three selections—"Morning" by Oley Speaks; "Lullaby", Brahms, and "Bells of Notre Dame", Gustave Klemm, in which the chimes were played by Thomas Grant, '33. Their second group included Kyrie from Second Mass, Gounod; "Adoremus Te", Da Palestrina; "In the Time of Roses", Luise Reichardt; "March of the Toys", Victor Herbert. Their singing was marked with precision and their enunciation was particularly fine.

Walter Harkins, '35, played a trumpet solo, "Sea Flower Polka" by F. H. Rollinson; Paul Neelon, '36, read a selection from "Cyrano de Bergerac"; Edwin Murphy, '36, sang two tenor solos—"In the Garden of Tomorrow", Jessie L. Deppen, and "A Brown Bird Singing", Haydn Wood, and Mr. Grant played a piano solo, "Rhapsody Number Six", Liszt.

Particularly effective was the last group by the Glee Club. Besides "Echo Song" by Orlando Di Lasso, there were Russian folk songs, one of which was "Hospodoe Pomechloy", by S. V. Lvovsky, and "Man to Man" by Chiappi-Ibanez. The echo was particularly interesting, half the group being behind the scenes and half on the platform. It was beautifully done. "Alma Mater" concluded the program.

The reports of the various societies and of the Church School showed that the year had been an encouraging one. Particularly encouraging was the financial report, which included an item of $800 paid on the church debt.

Rev. Rubens Rea Hadley, who came to the church six years ago last November, was given a most cordial invitation to continue his ministry. James Younie was elected president of the board. The new trustees were chosen—Joseph McCann and James O. Holt.

seats in advance of the box office sales have been avalanching until deep inroads have been made in the ticket racks. However, the repertoire is so varied, embracing as it does nine standard operas for the week of February 5th, that plenty of good seats remain at all prices for the public sale which opened Monday morning at the downtown ticket office in the Walker Building, room 416 at 120 Boylston Street, and for the regular box office sale which opens Thursday, January 25 at the Boston Opera House.

It is notable that notwithstanding the imposing array of opera stars and conductors, the orchestra of 60, chorus of 100, and ballet of 24, and ocularly pleasing scenic and costume accoutrements, the prices for the evening and Saturday matinee performances are no higher than $5.00, while for the still more popular priced Wednesday matinee, the highest price is only $2.00.

The complete repertoire for the week, with principal artists and conductors, is arranged as follows: Monday night, Walkure with Maria Jeritza, Charlotte Ryan, Elizabeth Brantell, Fred Patton; conductor, Fritz Reiner; Tuesday night, Aida, with Rosa Raisa, Coe Glade, Arnoldo Lindi, Mostyn Thomas, Joseph Sjoval, Guido Cudli; conductor, Cesare Sodero; Wednesday matinee, Carmen, with Carmela Ponselle, Ruth Miller, Dino Borgioli, Mostyn Thomas; conductor, Alberto Sciarretti; Wednesday night, Manon with Hope Hampton, Ethel Fox, Maria Marioli, Mario Chamlee, D. Deffere, Giuseppe Olivieri; conductor, Cesare Sodero; Thursday night, Rigoletto, with Giuseppe Lucchese, Coe Glade, Dino Borgioli, Claudio Frigerio, Guido Cudli; conductor, Cesare Sodero; Friday night, Boheme, with Hope Hampton, Lucy Moore, Mario Chamlee, Claudio Frigerio, Giuseppe Interrante, Joseph Sjoval; conductor, Cesare Sodero; Saturday matinee, Lohengrin, with Elsa Alsen, Dreda Ayes, Mario Chamlee, Fred Patton, Joseph Sjoval; conductor, Fritz Reiner; Saturday night, a double bill, Cavalleria Rusticana, with Rosa Raisa, Lucy Moore, Dino Borgioli, Giuseppe Interrante; conductor, Alberto Sciarretti; and Pagliacci, with Anna Roselle, Claudio Frigerio, Arnoldo Lindi; conductor, Cesare Sodero.

Junior West Entertains School Publications League

Junior High School West was host last Friday to some two hundred and fifty members of the Eastern Massachusetts League of Junior High School Publications. The editors and reporters came from papers published by junior high schools in Watertown, Newtonville, Somerville, Waltham, Wellesley, Somerville, Malden, West Newton and Lynn. They met in Junior High East because the accommodations there are much better.

Reception and registration were followed by a tour of the building. The art and business departments were the topics of the afternoon discussions, led by representatives of the F. A. Day Junior High, Newtonville; the West Junior High, Somerville; and the South Junior High, Waltham. The film, "Reporting Around the World" was shown by Mr. Shaw.

During the supper, which was served in the school gymnasium, there was music by a group from the Junior High West orchestra, led by Miss Mildred Emerson. Dr. Clarence H. Dempsey, superintendent of schools, greeted the young people. Dr. Franklin P. Hawkes, principal of Junior High West, acted as toastmaster and introduced the guests of honor at the head table. They were Rufus Blake and John Hendrick, who served supper to three hundred at the first meeting which was held five years ago; Harold B. Wood, publisher of the Arlington Advocate; William D. Power, principal of Junior High East, and Mr. Shaw. The supper, for which Roy Hamilton was caterer, was in charge of Miss Beatrice Arrand, cooking teacher at Junior High West, with a group of helpers. The flowers which decorated the tables were furnished by the Rawson Flower Shop.

"DANCING LADY" AT THE UNIVERSITY THEATRE

AT COLONIAL THEATRE

"Richard of Bordeaux," with Dennis King as the young and handsome King Richard, will be seen at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, for two weeks only, commencing Monday evening, January 29th. The return of Dennis King to the dramatic stage is an occasion for rejoicing among those who revel in the better things in the theatre and those who glory in the renaissance of the colorful drama of historical romance; and while some admirers may regret that he does not burst into song in his love-making, the recollection of his magnificent performances of "Mercurio" in "Romeo and Juliet" and "Peter Ibbetson" in the play of the same name, should satisfy the most captious critic that this splendid actor possesses histrionic artistry ever greater than that of his lyric endowment.

The play in which he is to appear is "Richard of Bordeaux," the reigning dramatic success of London, where, at the New Theatre, it has been playing continuously since June 26, 1932. This fascinating and historically authentic story of the eventful and startling life of Richard II of England is from the pen of Gordon Daviot, who is said to have devoted seven years of study to collecting the real facts relating to this monarch, who was the last of the Plantagenet line of kings.

As "Richard," the youthful sovereign, Dennis King has a character that fits him like the proverbial glove, and his supporting company includes such players of distinction as Francis Lister and Henry Molison, who have been brought from London to appear in the characters they created — "The Earl of Oxford" and "The Earl of Derby"; Margaret Vines has also arrived from London to play "Anne of Bohemia" and among the other players engaged are: Hugh Buckler, Charles Bryant, Montague Love, A. G. Andrews, Cyril Chadwick, Alexander Frank, Charles Romano, John Buckler, Andrew Cruikshank, Lionel Hoxarth, Olive Reeves Smith, Elizabeth Cerf, Mary N. Frasier and a host of others.

The production is pictorially effective and the costumes, etc., correct to period and texture. The entire presentation has been produced and personally directed by William Molison of London. Seats are now available at the box-office or by mail order.

curiosity, the airplane. It was one of the earliest models built by Orville and Wilbur Wright, and the flight was made from the old Wright Field, in Dayton, Ohio. As an interesting coincidence, the Wright brothers were then the owners of the second Hudson car made.

Last week, Orville Wright, dean of fliers and airplane builders, saw the first 1934 stream Terraplane come off the production line at the Hudson plant and was the first person to ride in it. Thus Mr. Chapin expressed his appreciation for the pleasure he enjoyed many years ago in the original "flying machine". There is one difference, however, in the exchange of "first rides" by the Detroit automobile executive and Mr. Wright. Mr. Chapin rode only twice in the early Wright airplane, but Mr. Wright secured for his daily use the No. 1 Terraplane of the 1934 series in which he rode last week. He was already a Terraplane driver, having owned one of the first models produced when the car was introduced over a year ago.

As motor cars adopt many of the mechanics and design fostered by the Wright brothers and other pioneers in aviation, it is natural that Mr. Wright finds his interest in automobiles growing. A major instance is streamlining, which he found well exemplified in the new Terraplanes and Hudsons. The rear contours of these cars, with their sweeping wind-streamed curves, are a distinct step forward in designing for reduced wind-resistance and increased performance. The veteran plane builder who saw the initial 1934 Terraplane completed was among the first to use wind-tunnel tests for airplanes, which are now a regular and important part of Hudson engineers' experimental work. Another point of interest to Mr. Wright is the fact that the power-to-weight ratio achieved in many of the Hudson-built models is even better than the ratio of a horsepower to every thirty pounds weight required in airplanes.

The Place of Coffee as a Beverage

By Donald A. Laird, Ph.D., Sc.D.
Director of Colgate University Psychological Laboratory, Hamilton, New York.

THE control which the homemaker has over the health and happiness of her family through the selection and preparation of foods is almost appalling in its responsibility. This is especially true now that emphasis is being given to the enjoyment of the taste and flavor of foods as well as to their chemical contributions to the life of the body.

Coffee is pre-eminently used for the enjoyment of its flavor. Yet if the housewife wanted to learn all about the place of coffee in the diet she would have to study more than six hundred scientific reports—and coffee has probably been studied less than most foods!

In spite of our leading position as a coffee-consuming nation—the average American drinks two cups a day—there is yet much to be learned in the preparation of the beverage, as those six hundred reports show clearly. The richest flavor, most delightful aroma, and most palatable drink is made by infusing finely-ground coffee for about two minutes just below boiling temperature in a non-metallic pot. The beverage should be separated from the grounds promptly.

The Drip Method

When this procedure, known as the drip method, is followed, the black infusion is delicious. If this practice is not followed, sugar and cream may be needed to "level out" the metallic taste from the pot, or the bitterness from boiling. This procedure is very similar to that used in the preparation of tea, except a small flame should be kept under the infusion of coffee, but without actually bringing it to a boil. The only significance in the method of infusing is in the result in the taste, although how this result occurs is not understood, as will be seen shortly.

What the coffee bean contains that yields the aroma and flavor is not known, the six hundred reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The aromatic oils are simply called

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 28.

The Golden Text is: "He is the Rock, his work is perfect; for all his ways are judgment; a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he" (Deuteronomy 32:4).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth. . . . For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ" (John 1: 14, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As the individual ideal of Truth, Christ Jesus came to rebuke rabbinical error and all sin, sickness and death,—to point out the way of Truth and Life. This ideal was demonstrated throughout the whole earthly career of Jesus. (p. 30).

THREE BILLS TO WATCH

There are three bills on the state legislative program which are being carefully watched by all who are interested in the public schools.

One bill would give to the executives of towns and cities—selectmen and aldermen—the expenditure of school funds, taking it away from the school committees. This is the same bill that was brought in last year when it was opposed, as it is today, by educators and the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and was defeated.

Those opposed to the bill argue that it will involve the schools in politics and so decrease their efficiency. Probably most of us can recall instances of the dismissal of superintendent or principal, not because he was a poor educator, but because he was wrong politically. Members of school committees are chosen, it is assumed, because of special qualities, knowledge and abilities which make them of value in school administration, while selectmen, mayors, and aldermen are chosen for quite other qualities. It does not seem sensible to take the control of expenditure from these especially chosen men and give it to others.

In Arlington, moreover, the school budget after it is made up by the school committee, is carefully scrutinized by the Finance Committee, whose sub-committee on schools has given the matter detailed attention. This work by two committees would seem to assure efficient budgeting and disbursement of funds.

The second bill provides for the repeal of the section that requires that in towns of more than 20,000 population manual arts—including manual training and domestic science—be included in the school curriculum and in its place would put a law that manual arts need not be required in towns of less than 27,000 population. Many towns now get state aid in the maintenance of their manual arts departments and without this state aid would probably discontinue them. The value of domestic science and manual training is obvious. Some children learn in school in these subjects enough to enable them to earn their livings after they leave school. Others learn much that is of value to them in their homes.

In the vocational schools the children buy the material which they use and are allowed to sell the articles which they make. The third bill forbids the sale of such articles. Those who favor it argue that the children become unfair competitors of those whose business it is to sell such articles, since the children do not charge for their time and so are able to undersell. Those opposed to it reply that such competition is negligible while the sale of the articles gives the children an added incentive to do good work, that the experience is of value to them and that the money earned helps them to pay for the material, as they must whether or not the articles are sold.

All laws that affect schools should be given especially careful consideration at this time. The schools have felt the depression in the many economies that have been forced upon them. Massachusetts, which has always taken pride in her schools, is one of the states in which none of the rural schools have been closed this year, according to a map of the National Education Association. Economies have been effected here, however, by a decrease both in the number of teachers and in the salaries paid them—the decrease by way of the voluntary contribution to welfare work. Both departments and classes have been consolidated and in some cases the class periods have been curtailed. While the number of pupils enrolled has increased, the number of teachers employed has decreased.

This means that our children are not being so well educated as they were before the depression. They are losing something which they will never regain for schooling is something that the majority of us get when we are of school age, or we never get it at all.

Hearings on these three bills will be held soon—may be held at any time. If you are interested in the education of your children it would be well to watch them.

Sixty Years Ago This Week

On Friday evening, January 23, about 50 of the friends of Warren Rawson, Jr., assembled at his father's residence on Charlestown street. The usual games incident to such an occasion were indulged in, and a bountiful collation was partaken of, and the company separated at a reasonable hour.

On January 22nd a party of 150 friends and relatives assembled at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Lawrence on Medford street to celebrate the marriage of their daughter, Mary A. Lawrence, to Mr. Franklin M. Upham of the firm of Upham Bros.

Last Friday afternoon Herbert W. Cotting, of this town, went fishing on Upper Mystic. The ice was thin and rotten and in crossing he broke through. Some small boys witnessed the accident and gave the alarm, but he was not seen again until the body was recovered. He was found just where he had gone through, held upright by his cloak which floated on the surface. Herbert was twenty years old on the 5th inst.

Last Friday afternoon with the help of Mr. J. M. Chase and his accomplished son, Al, and with the advice and consent of several other friendly neighbors, we placed a new Globe printing press in our new office over Dodge's Drug Store. We shall soon be able to show our friends how job printing is done right here in Arlington.

The performance of the beautiful operetta, "Genevieve," on Wednesday last under the direction of Mr. S. P. Prentiss, was the occasion which filled the town hall to overflowing. . . . the part of Genevieve was taken by Miss Nellie M. Fessenden and that of Isadore by Miss Annie Lawrence. . . . A pleasant feature of the entertainment was the singing of the "Arlington Quartet" consisting of Messrs. Knowles, Hobbs, Pool and Glazier. The piano accompaniments were played by Mr. William E. Wood.

CANDIDATE FOR ASSESSOR

To the Editor of the Arlington Advocate:

I have already encroached upon the valuable space in your paper. In an attempt to place before the citizens of Arlington, word pictures descriptive of the background of two of the candidates for major offices, at the coming Town election in March.

The importance of voting has also been mentioned, so that the appeal which this letter carries is the third, and I believe that the average citizen will agree that this feature is important and cannot be repeated too often.

IT IS THE IMPERATIVE DUTY OF EVERY CITIZEN OF ARLINGTON TO VOTE.

The word picture which this third letter attempts to portray, is relative to an office which is most intimately connected with the cost of maintenance, of every habitation which shelters a resident of the Town.

These habitations, together with other properties which are used for business purposes, provide, through a levy of taxes, the money necessary to insure the financial security of the Town, thereby enabling it to meet its obligations. That the levy of these taxes shall be apportioned as equitably as possible, is a problem which must be solved by men endowed with an honesty of purpose, together with the exercise of sound and seasoned judgment.

To determine this equalization involves a great amount of time, thought and labor. Likewise, experience, combined with a thorough knowledge of real estate values, is not only desirable, but essential.

A candidate for the office which prescribes such duties, in whom the citizens can find a working combination of these essentials, is perhaps, more difficult to find than one might imagine.

However, the town is fortunate in having just such a candidate available, and the office referred to is that of Assessor, which may have been guessed by the reader from the above outline. He is a candidate for reelection, which, of course, signifies that he possesses previously acquired experience in the office. In addition, he possesses the other qualifications referred to, and with them the ability and judgment, to properly adjust him to the requirements of the town. I believe that the honest expression of opinion of the average citizen may be summed up in the following lines.

He has always been courteous, willing to listen to, carefully weigh and consider each and every grievance on its merits, and then render his decision in as just and impartial a manner as possible.

His often expressed doctrine, "Treat everyone with fairness," (this including the Town itself) emphasizes the fact that he recognizes that an honest discharge of his duties prescribes for these equitable adjustments.

Now of course, the candidate may not be able to identify himself by this not exaggerated recital of his virtues, for he is a modest gentleman, but the citizens who know him will be able to do so, and they will know that these lines speak the truth, and when the proper time comes, they will demonstrate this by voting for John D. O'Leary for Assessor.

Twenty-five Years Ago This Week

There is displayed in the show window of the Arlington News Agency a large and elegant silver cup, the trophy won by homing pigeons, belonging to Mr. Andrew Irwin of Arlington police force, in a world contest.

The Arlington Improvement Association is still in status quo. The reorganization meeting called for Monday evening failing to command the attention of a quorum. Those present voted to adjourn.

This week has seen the passing of an old landmark. We have reference to the building on the Hodgdon property on Massachusetts avenue at the head of Medford street, and which has for so many years, been used as a paint shop and horse shoeing forge. It gives way to a brick building 50x80 which will be used as a garage by a corporation to be known as the Arlington Automobile Co.

Friday evening the three-act comedy, "The Sisterhood of Bridge," was repeated in Town Hall for the benefit of the Arlington fund for the earthquake sufferers in Sicily. The artistic and effective stage settings and properties were under the direction of Mrs. J. A. Bailey, Jr., Mrs. F. F. Low, Miss Vida Damon. The play was coached by Miss Alice Homer. The players were: Howard T. Viets, Ray Mauger, Paul C. Squire, Roger W. Homer, Philip Dunbar, Jack Hutchinson, Prescott Bigelow, Alice Wakefield, Clara Livingstone, Mabel Pettigill, Frances Hawes, Eleanor Homer.

Winchester Choral Society Concert Next Tuesday

Next Tuesday evening the music loving folks of the Mystic Valley region will assemble in the Winchester Town Hall to listen to the offering of the Winchester Choral Society in the first concert of its fifth season.

J. Albert Wilson is a Harvard man, with an excellent musical background, and was for more than twenty years organist and choir master of the Church of the Epiphany of Winchester, developing his choristers into one of the finest groups around Boston. He is now organist and choirmaster of the First Congregational church, and is also acting as the director of the chorus of the Fortnightly Woman's Club of Winchester, and of Winchester High School Chorus.

The Society is composed of an active membership of one hundred singers recruited by invitation from residents of Winchester, Woburn, Arlington, Stoneham, Medford, Melrose, Malden and Somerville, thus making a truly community society.

For its concert next Tuesday, the society has been fortunate in securing as soloist Coleman Sargent, former operatic tenor at Milan and Munich, who has recently returned to this country, filling an engagement with the American Opera Company. In addition to singing a group of solo numbers, Mr. Sargent will appear with the society in the presentation of Reinecke's beautiful "Evening Hymn."

The program will include the following interesting selections by the entire chorus: "O Gladsome Light" from "The Golden Legend" by Sullivan; "Liberty," a Song of Ancient Rome, suggested by Macaulay's "Virginia" by Fanning; "Send Out Thy Spirit," by Schuetky; "London Town" by German; "Music, When Soft Voices Die," by Bantock; "Evening Hymn" by Reinecke; "Regina Coeli" from "Cavaleria Rusticana," by Mascagni; "Crossing the Bar" by Barbery.

The Society men's chorus will sing: "Hunting Song" from "King Arthur," by Bullard; "Lamp in the West" by Parker; "Soldiers Chorus" from "Faust," by Gounod.

The success of the Society has been enhanced by the wonderful abilities of the two accompanists, Mary H. French and Mary R. Witham.

Arlington members include: LeRoy Bezanon, Letitia G. Doble, Eva G. Mellen, Grace B. Mitchell.

MY COLLAR BUTTON

My collar button has a way of falling to the floor.
When I am dressing hurriedly, and gosh, it makes me sore.
I had it in my hand this morn.
To place it in my shirt.
When lo, it dropped and disappeared
Just like a speck of dirt.
With staring eyes I looked around,
but it was not in sight.
I lifted rugs and chairs and things,
(and slammed them back all right).
Then on my hands and knees I crawled beneath the oaken bed—
And for my trouble only got a rap upon the head;
I snaked myself to chifonier,
with flashlight in my hand,
And every inch it overspread was most minutely scanned.
But darn the thing it wasn't there—
AND WAS I GETTING MAD, AND SAYING THINGS THAT SOUND NOT GOOD,
BUT AWFLY, AWFLY BAD.
Then suddenly a new thought flashed—
it should have come before:
"Maybe that impish golden thing is right behind the door!"
One leap enough, I reached the spot
with a resounding whack, Pulled on the door, and there it was reposing in a crack.

Bridge Nets Good Sum for Scholarship Fund

Members of the Arlington Heights Study Club are much pleased with the success of the dessert bridge which they held Tuesday afternoon in the Parish House of the Park Avenue Congregational church. Not only was it a jolly party, with all those present having the jolliest possible time, but more money was made for the scholarship fund, for whose benefit the affair was held, than has been made for several years. Not only was the amount set for the fund raised, but a surplus which will be applied to the Victoria C. Dallin Library Fund.

There were forty-two tables in the hall and two in homes. The high scorer at each table was given an attractive jar filled with excellent powder. For dessert, delicious apple pie and ice cream were served under the direction of Mrs. Clarence E. Johnson. A food sale in charge of the club president, Mrs. Franklin P. Hawkes, and Mrs. John Copp, added still more to the fund.

The committee that arranged the affair was composed of Mrs. George Parker, chairman; Mrs. H. H. Stinson, Mrs. Herbert Peirce, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Walter J. Brown, Mrs. Norval Bacon, Mrs. J. Herbert Mead and Mrs. E. L. Shinn.

Engagement Announced at Birthday Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. George Francis Johnson of Weston have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara Rice Johnson, to Leonard Dudley Wood, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Wood of 21 Hutchinson road. The announcement was made last Saturday night at a surprise birthday dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson at their Weston home in honor of Mr. Wood's birthday anniversary.

Miss Johnson attended Miss Dow's School at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., from which she was graduated in 1929. She was also graduated from the Child-Walker School of Fine Arts in Boston, where she is now assistant instructor. She designs and makes very beautiful jewelry.

Mr. Wood prepared for college at Arlington High School. In Harvard, from which he was graduated in 1931, he was a member of the varsity golf team and of the Dramatic and Instrumental Club. He received the degree of bachelor of music in 1933 from the New England Conservatory of Music. He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia. Mr. Wood is a violinist of recognized ability, a teacher of violin and harmony and is conductor of the new Community Symphony Orchestra.

Arlington People Hear West Roxbury Orchestra

Arlington people who are interested in the Community Symphony Orchestra went to West Roxbury Wednesday evening to attend a concert given by a similar organization—the Sinfonietta, which is composed of fifty West Roxbury musicians. The aims of the orchestra are the same as those of the Arlington organization. The lowest priced tickets cost seventy-five cents—and the hall was filled.

Edwin Frank Goldman, who conducted a part of the program, gave a talk in which he emphasized the importance of music—a part, he said, of very existence. He had never known a criminal who was musical. Educate a child in a musical instrument and the bars of the prison become bars of music. The community orchestra could play its part in educating the public to appreciate Beethoven, Mozart and other classical writers. Jazz, he said, has its place; it is for the feet, not for the head or the heart.

Miss Edwards to Give Recital at Junior East

Miss Phyllis Kendall Edwards will be heard in a violin recital next Wednesday evening at eight-fifteen in the Junior High East Auditorium on Tufts street. She will be assisted by Miss Phyllis E. Lamothe, accompanist, and Miss Audrey E. Lester, cellist.

Three Skaters Taken From Spy to Hospital

Three skaters were injured on Spy Pond during the past week and were taken from the pond to Symmes Hospital. On Sunday afternoon, when there was a large crowd on the ice, Louis Gillispie, 22, of 38 Farragut street, Somerville, fell and struck his head. As he was unconscious it was believed he had fractured his skull but an X-ray taken at the hospital showed there was no such injury.

About three hours later Frederick Paulin, 24, of 136 Reed street, North Cambridge, fell while skating. Examination at the hospital showed that his right leg was broken in two places.

Wednesday evening when the bright moonlight combined with the smooth ice drew a crowd to the pond, Nathan D'Eon of 76 White street, East Boston, tripped as he was skating and fell. His face broke through the thin top coating of ice and he was badly gashed. At the hospital several stitches were taken in the wounds.

Sons of Italy Banquet On Ninth Anniversary

Arlington Lodge, Sons of Italy, commemorated its ninth anniversary with a brilliant banquet at the Hotel Commander last week Thursday. Giuseppe Dente, chairman of the committee in charge, acted as toastmaster and introduced the guest speaker, Judge Felix Forte. A feature was a solo dance by Miss Francis Vellone. Following the banquet there was dancing until midnight.

On the committee with Mr. Dente were Pasquale Coppola, Frank Tortorici, Leonardo Marasco, treasurer; Amedeo D'Auria, secretary; Frank Lo Presti, venerable, ex-officio.

Prof. Delo Lectures on "The Coming of Man"

The Universalist church auditorium was well filled Sunday evening to hear Professor David M. Delo of Harvard deliver his address on "The Coming of Man." This was the fifth of a series of popular science lectures sponsored by the three center churches—the First Parish, the Orthodox Congregational and the Universalist.

Professor Delo corrected the popular impression of the theory of evolution by explaining that it did not mean that we descended from the ape but it meant that man and ape are very distant relatives, with similar parents forty million years ago. The gradual change to the form of man took place before the four glaciations. The origin of man is multiple. The ape is the closest in intelligence of all the animals to man.

The lecture covered the many phases of anthropology, the origin of man and the course of his development. The greatest impetus according to the speaker given to this study was by Darwin in the latter part of the 19th century. The evidence is fragmentary but through the careful study of cranial measurements of the fossil remains particularly of the Neanderthal man, discovered in 1858, and the Cro-magnon of a later period, evolution is clearly indicated. Interesting stereoscopic pictures illustrated the professor's deductions.

The speaker was introduced by James Younle, chairman of the board of trustees of the Universalist church. Rev. John Nicol Mark read appropriate selections. Mrs. Sandberger presided at the organ and Rev. Rubens Rea Hadley conducted the meeting.

Historical Members at Bay State League

The winter meeting of the Bay State Historical League was held at the Deane Winthrop House at Winthrop last Saturday afternoon. The Winthrop Improvement and Historical Association were host to the very large number that attended. Three hundred and twenty-three sat down to luncheon at 1 o'clock. The Arlington members answering to roll call were Judge James P. Parmenter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hardy, Miss Marion E. Shirley, Rev. L. L. Barber, Mrs. George A. Winn, Miss Jeanette Stewart, Miss Florence Harris and Miss Anna Barnes. The League is made up of ninety-nine historical societies all over the state.

Miss Gahn's Engagement Announced at Luncheon

At a luncheon at their home on Richmond road, last Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Gahn announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Gertrude, to Francis Thomas Seery of Chatham, N. Y.

Miss Gahn prepared for college at Marycliff Academy and graduated from Radcliffe in 1930.

Mr. Seery is a graduate of Pratt Institute of Technology in Brooklyn, N. Y., class of 1924.

The wedding will take place in the fall.

First Baptist Men Have Supper and Entertainment

The Men's Class of the First Baptist church enjoyed a fellowship get-together, Tuesday night, in the social hall of the church. An appetizing supper was prepared by Roy C. Hamilton, local restaurateur; an excellent address given by Ernest W. Davis, chairman of Arlington's Finance Committee; and an amusing Mock Trial by members of the Trinity Methodist church of West Medford.

Mr. Davis outlined the town's finances in a remarkably clear way. He said that four years ago we were receiving income from the state but now large sums had to be paid out to the state instead. This expense, added to welfare costs, represents about $6.50 in the town tax rate. To prevent an undue increase in taxes, the greatest economy and freedom from waste in public expenditures will be necessary. Arlington must not join the ranks of too many communities who are seriously perplexed to know how to pay their employees, nor must she add unnecessary burdens to the taxpayers.

The mock trial was over the theft of a mince pie with a strong brandy aroma. The cast, largely made up of members of the West Medford church, was assisted by some of the members of the local men's class. Carl Everberg was tried as the culprit. Clair E. Turner, Clarence Emery and Marcus Sorensen were others of the class who helped make the play a delightful entertainment.

Fred Gay, the president of the class, was chairman. Rev. Grady D. Feagan addressed the gathering, briefly. Ray Barss, Charles Reay, and Harold Meyer, of the supper committee, were the hosts.

F. J. Facey Candidate For Office of Selectman

Announcement was made yesterday of the candidacy of Francis J. Facey, of 5 Cheviot road, for the office of selectman.

Mr. Facey has for ten years been a resident of Arlington, and for several years a property owner here. During that time he has been a keen, though quiet, student of the affairs of the town. His interest has been the stronger because he is the father of three children, two of school age, and it is largely his desire that they shall have the best possible town to grow up in that has caused him to run for office.

He is a graduate of Boston College High School and of Boston College and a World War veteran. Though he has never before entered political life, he has long given close attention to state and national politics. Though he is a Democrat, his attitude is one of intelligent political liberalism and progress.

For 15 years he has been associated in the printing business with his father, J. Frank Facey of Cambridge, who has long been known and liked by hundreds of Arlingtonians. He is now proprietor of the business.

Mr. Facey's candidacy will be a matter of gratification to thousands of local voters. His integrity, conscientious devotion to ideals, courage, and liberal-mindedness, as well as his ability, are well known to the many who have come in contact with him. Not only will many Democrats be glad to know that such a Democrat is in the field, but many Republicans will lend him support.

A thoroughly honest and progressive regime within the limits of reasonable tax expenditure is his platform.

DURGIN—KELLEY

Miss Edna Morse Kelley and Cyrus W. Durgin, music editor of the Boston Globe, were married last Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride, 9a Lakeview, by Rev. Raymond Calkins, pastor of the First Congregational church, Cambridge. Only the immediate families and a few friends witnessed the ceremony.

The bride, who is the daughter of John J. Kelley and Grace Morse Kelley, was graduated from Colby Academy, New London, N. H., in 1927, and from Lake Erie College in 1931. Mr. Durgin, who is the son of Mrs. Glen H. Sturgeon of Salem, was graduated from Colby Academy in 1924. He has been music editor of the Globe for several years.

The couple went to New Hampshire for a short honeymoon. They will live at 44 Grove street, Beacon Hill, Boston.

—Miss Mabel Smith of 3 Westmoreland avenue left last Saturday for New Smyrna, Florida, where she will spend two weeks with her mother, uncle and aunt, Mrs. Edward Smith and Mr. and Mrs. William Solomon.

Arlington Kiwanis Club

Meets  Thursday
Every Noon
at Wyman's Tavern

The speaker for today was our own member, "Spin" Wunderly, lieutenant governor of the fifth division. His knowledge of civic and economic conditions was certainly a revelation to the club. A local man very seldom receives recognition to a very great extent in his own home town, but not so in this case. From all appearances "Spin's" reign will be one of success, of which the Arlington club will be very proud.

Our underprivileged child work is being carried on, as usual, very efficiently, by Jack O'Leary, as it has been for the past five years. We are carrying four crippled children to and from school every day.

Our past president, Walter Charnberlain, gave us his version of life on the farm today. It was quite enlightening, to say the least.

Each week it is the duty of one of the members to ask the blessing before our luncheon is eaten. I understand Harry Baker is to visit F. P. Hawkes before next week.

It was a pleasure for the club to listen to the rendition of "Far, Far Away" by our "silver voiced" tenor, "Len" Roberts, accompanied by our musical director with the soft touch, Ray E. Mauger.

Troop News

Priscilla Eaton was acting captain of Troop 1 on Monday. The older girls are rotating in order as captain and lieutenant of the troop and taking over a troop meeting entirely as far as ceremonies and program are concerned. Five candidates have applied for admission to troop one, which is more than full again. First Aid work is being conducted by Mrs. Komenda.

Mrs. James Boyd of 70 Paul Revere road has been officially commissioned as captain succeeding Mrs. Dallin who has temporarily resigned her captaincy to take over a new troop later in the spring.

During the next few months, two meetings of Troop 3 will be given out of every four to Needlework Guild sewing. Crib blankets have been decided upon for the troop contribution.

After a series of interesting visits to various places, troop 6 members will have an open discussion next Tuesday evening at headquarters on the Junior Citizenship requirements. A swimming party has been planned at the Somerville pool during the latter part of next week's meeting.

Five Scouts have been welcomed into troop 7 so far this season: Vera Wing, Mary Battis, Cynthia Smith, Barbara Scott and Mary Winer. Observation for second class is being worked on with Martha Brown.

Troop 8 girls are on a second class badge hunt. Jane Power and Barbara Malone have succeeded in capturing their badges.

Miss Irene Stevens, R. N., will visit troop 10 next Monday afternoon to tell them about the work done in the children's department of the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital. Miss Stevens is a Girl Scout captain and is an ardent camper and hiker. At Christmas troop 10 sent a large collection of scrapbooks to Miss Stevens for the little patients at the hospital.

On Saturday, January 27, one patrol from troop 12 will visit the Harvard Museum. Mrs. Swett, a member of the troop committee, will accompany the girls.

Ruth Brison, Rosamond Walsh and Eunice Crockett are new additions to troop 13 this winter. The course in electricity will conclude next Wednesday with a practical demonstration with household appliances. Following that there will be a short written examination. James Kidder has been conducting the course.

Needlework Guild sewing is very popular with the girls in troop 14. Double sided bibs, underwear and mittens are being made under the direction of the troop committee.
